OPENER

Grand Square

Still air, the harvest moon in the sky

Fools scared of their supernatural demise

Raised hair on the back of your neck

Tells you something is lurking tonight

The hymns of the October wind are howling through the trees

The sun sets on a night to bring the bravest to their knees

A thin divide is lifted letting spirits through the fray

When shadows fall the beasts have come to scare us all away

Heads promenade half way around

Down the middle square thru get 4 hands around

4 hands and swing thru boys run

couples circulate one time

Swing the corner girl, promenade her home it's a

Cursed night, A bone chiller

Cover your eyes, 'cause you're living a thriller

CLOSER

Grand Square

Red feast, of bounty for violent delights

Released from hell and its unending spite

One breach, every hundred years

To let the masked reign the living (Allemande and weave)

A ravenous monstrosity to put Lovecraft to shame

When horrors born with countless eyes, arise without a name

The living and the citizens once mourned but fear the dead

Those fiends have come for vengeance, and will bury them instead
